MONEY AND THE MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL, TUESDAY EVENING, Dec. 5, 1876. We have no new features to report in local financial affairs. The banks report currency scarce and the money market close. The demand for loans and discounts is promptly met, however, when the paper offered is unexceptionable and the current rates of interest are steady at 10 to 12 per cent.

The offerings of eastern exchange continue large, and counter sales are made at par to 1-10

CATARRHAL

DEAFNESS.

Among the list of chornic diseases which affect the human frame, Catarrh is the most prevalent, most offensive, most productive of discomfort, and of a variety of distressing and discomfort, and of a variety of distressing and dangerous complicationt. Its earliest and most prominent symptom is a discharge from the head, varying in its nature in different cases and even in the same individual at different times. It may be a thin, colorless, acrid fluid, or a glarry, starch-like substance. Generally, however, it is a thick, puralent or mucco-purulent matter, either ash-colored, greenish yellow, or of a deep green tint, occasionally streaked or flecked with blood. So copious and offensive is the discharge in many cases that patients express their belief that their heads are one "mass of corruption." agents. Prints are in fair request. Ginghams duli but unchanged. Worsted, coatings and fancy cassimeres in moderate demand by

"HAWKING."

Much of the discharge passes backward either dropping into the throat or collecting as a tough, viscid, tenacious phlegm behind and above the soft palate in the passage be-tween the throat and head. Its lodgment embarrasses respiration and creates a constant and almost irresistible desire to relieve the glls ld; club do lls ld@lls 3d; red western spring, No2 to No1, 9s 7d@l0s 5d; winter do l0s discomfort by drawing the offensive substance into the throat by a loud insufflation through the nose, so as then to be able to eject it by a disagreeable "hawking."

Offensive Breath.

In the more advanced stages the discharges are generally of an offensive odor, causing great annoyance to one's friends and to the patient himself, while his sense of smell remains. This annoyance from the odor be-comes almost beyond endurance, more especially when the disease assumes the form of ozena, and the delicate bones of the nose become diseased.

Fatal Effects of Catarrh.

The swallowing of catarrhal secretions de-ranges the functions of the stomach, causing indigestion and loss of appetite and health. Debility, paleness, lassitude, headache and dis-turbance of mind soon follow.

Consumption and Death. Catarrhal affections, unchecked by treatment, are prone to extend by continuity of surface along the natural air passages to the lungs, thus causing consumption and death. In this connection it should also be remembered that the air which enters the lungs of a contemplation of the catarrhal patient is, every breath of it, pois-oned by exhalation from the foul secretions of the diseased surface. This consideration alone should be sufficient to induce every person thus afflicted to make early application for re-

Say in what paper you revolution than in that of the Pathology and Therapeutics of diseases of the Respiatory or-gans. The introduction of the Laryngoscope has given a grade of positiveness and cer-tainty to the actual seat of the disease.

By my treatment a complete and permanent cure of this repulsive disorder can be effected.
This I have demonstrated in thousands of cases, representing the disease in every form and all its various stages of development. My applications are made to reach the diseased parts in the most direct and positive manner, instantaneously penetrating every cell and cavity of the head communicating with the nostriis, and subjecting every por-tion of the membrane to the heal-ing action of the remedy employed, with the most beneficial result, and without causing the least pain or unpleasant sensation. Noises in the head disappear, the affected cavities are thoroughly cleansed from the incrusted morbific matter, the offensive breath is removed and relief from other troublesome symptoms is almost immediately experienced. The discharge soon diminishes, irritation is allayed, the inflammation subsides, ulcerations are made to heal, and finallly a radical and permanent cure is effected.

The Ear and Its Diseases The diseases of the ear most prevalent and destructive to hearing are of a chronic character, giving neither pain nor distress, nor presenting any other feature calculated to arouse immediate alarm. The approach of deafness in such cases is so extremely insidious that a patient is unable to tell when the difficulty was first noticed, and so slow and gradual in its development that no progress is perceptible except at long intervals of time. At first the hearing is found a little less acute than formerly, and a somewhat closer attention has to be paid if we wish to hear distinctly.

Deafness in One Ear. Occasionally we find that only one ear is at-tacked, the other retaining its hearing power offen for years. Where this is the case no dfficulty is experienced in hearing conversation readily, except when approached on the deaf side, but the power is lost to know the direc-tion of sound; if hallooed to, for instance, a person so affected could not tell which way the sound came from. In the majority of cases the other ear becomes affected in time, and what was before a serious inconvenience parcel of land is paid, I will proceed to collect the amount so assessed by levy and sale of said lot or parcel of land, or as much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the above claim, and all costs that may accrue. comes then an actual misfortune. Discharge From the Ear.

Discharge from the ear is dangerous, both to hearing and to the system generally. In some cases it occasions total deafness, while in all, cases it occasions total deafness, while in all, the hearing suffers to a more or less extent, and none escape without some notable injury to the hearing power. Aside from its effect on hearing, the disease is apt to give rise to Neuralgia, Epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, Paralysis and other nervous disturbances, results scarcely to be wondered at when we consider the close proximity of the diseased aural cavity to the great nervous center, the brain, to which the inflammation or niceration might be communicated with fatal consequences.

Noises in the Head.

Noises in the head are sometimes the first and only indication of a morbid condition of the ear. At first they are slight and only come by spells, but after a time they are constantly present and increase in intensity. They usually resemble the escape of steam, the ringing of bells, the beating of the heart, the humming of insects, and in fact every imaginable sound. Otten they prove a source of terrible torture and distress, and many a patient who applied to me for relief was far more anxious to have the noises removed than the hearing to have the noises removed than the hearing restored, if only one thing or the other could

To the deaf I would say that they must entirely diseard the idea that they are incurable I have numerous letters from responsible men who had given up all hope of relief because one physician or another, whom they had been in the habit of considering the epitome of medical knowledge, had pronounced them

PROSPECTUS FOR 1877.

The Sentinel.

Every reading and thinking man in the state who can afford to take a newspaper ought to subscribe for at least one of the editions of the Sentinel, FARMERS, MERCHANTS AND LAW-YERS, without respect to party, particularly stand in need of it, for, in addition to its political and literary merits, the Sentinel is confessedly the Commercial Paper of Indiana. Indeed, it is hardly too much to say that its Market Reports are fuller and more accurately compiled, and its monetary and general business articles abler and more thoroughly treated than those of any paper in the central

Its Supreme Court Reports can but commend it to the legal fraternity throughout the state, for they embrace a most careful digest of the pertinent points of every decision rendered in our Supreme Court. The public is familiar with the Political Opinions and Convictions of this paper, but it may not be amiss to plainly avow them here. As the advocate of HONESTY AND ECONOMY in the administration of the national and state governments an . as the uncompromising enemy of nepotism and despotism, of chicanery, frauds and rings, wherever they may be found, the
